

Place chairs into the office, in a way that in every row, every column and every cubicle (bordered area) there are exactly two chairs. Each chair occupies one square.

Obey the social distance rules: Always keep at least one empty square between two chairs. In other words, chairs may not touch, not even diagonally, not even across cubicle borders.

Example (with only one chair in every row/column/cubicle):

Here is the actual puzzle (with two chairs in every row/column/cubicle)
